"I do not want to go through the pain of childbirth again, my first delivery was normal, so my husband told me to the doctor that we do not want to wait for labor and do the Caesarean. If he starts after, why should he get so much pain before his arrival? "

Shilpi has recently given birth to a healthy boy as a second child in a private hospital. It was a well-planned c-section that was the baby born through the operation.

Cesarean can now be detected

In the C-section, in the lower part of the stomach, the 'C' shaped incision of the English caps and the baby is born, hence it is also called bikini cut.

Avoiding C - Section

Another such mother, Aditi, has also given birth to her daughter Anwita from the C-section on the predetermined day.

Aditi says that "the eldest son was from the Caesarean because the child was not coming out, I have tolerated Labor Pen 24 hours. I had decided on the same day that the other child would not be so disturbed, if one day before the operation I took an appointment in the parlor, also made facials and spas, shopping and dinners, and the next day I went to the hospital for delivery. "

Sonali, 40, a 40-year-old Krishna, says, "My sister is a nimerologist, she said that you should have a child on the due date of October, that would be a lucky baby. So I had a c-section for the same day and happy today I am. "

By listening to the stories of today's mothers, bypassing the norms of normal delivery, the mother has started adopting the C-section options openly, which used to not have been used for a few years ago.

Sudhir Nayak, observer and gynecologist, Mumbai, says, "People's thinking about maternity and pregnancy has changed, people do not want to take any risk in one or two children. The pressure always remains that if there is something wrong then it is the carelessness of the two doctors. "

"I also advise my juniors that if there is a question of the life of a mother or a child, then do the c-section. But remember that as normal delivery you will get as much confidence as the patients will do."

There is a section in the country which also gives importance to normal delivery. It is said that due to no cut in your body after normal delivery, the body can return to the first form. It is believed that you have an attachment towards your child too.

How much profit loss?

Although there is no scientific confirmation, many people also believe that normal baby will be more healthy or cheerful than a child born with a C-section.

Yes, the experience of experienced women is sure that because the use of vagina is not excessive in the C-section, many women find pleasure in the same sex as before, whereas in normal delivery there is a difference in cure of vagina.

Doctors also believe that after the C-section, the next delivery has to be done by the C-section and if the normal operation of some other organ is to be done, then the woman has to take care of caesarean.

Data accuracy

Recently, after getting a petition from Women and Child Development Minister Maneka Gandhi, the matter has been talked about providing public distribution of data of normal segments and normal (delivery) delivery to hospitals of hospitals across the country.

According to the petition, the number of C-sections has increased in India in the last few years. These figures are 74.8% in Telangana, 41% in Kerala and 58% in Tamil Nadu. According to the National Health Family Survey 4 (Year 2015-16), according to the birth rate for the last five years, the C-section is 28.3% in the cities of the country, whereas in the villages 12.9% i.e. total 17.2%. The total caesarean figure in 2005-6 was 8.5%.

Among these, C-Section figures in private institutions - 44.8% in the city, 37.8% in the villages and 40.9% in the total, which was 27.7% in 2005-6. Statistics of government institutions say that 19.9% of the villages in the villages have 9.3% ie 11.9% which is 15.2% in 2005-6.

When asked about this petition, Dr. Sudhir explains, "In some hospitals, patients with a risk like high blood pressure pregnant women or a woman suffering from diabetes have been referred, the circumstances of the C-section increase."

Doctor Sudhir asks, "So should we stop that we have already done so many sections in this month, so now we will not do any more operation. Now it will depend on every patient, its condition and the belief that it is done on us. Yes I do not deny wrong practice in profession. "

It is said that there are many expenses in the C-section and the doctor and the hospital do a lot of earning. It also increases the cost of operation theater, support staff, medicines, assistant doctors and hospital stay. The patient can be kept in the hospital for five to seven days. While in Normal one has to stay in the hospital for one to three days. In this, the remaining expenses are also low.

The petitioner Subarna Ghosh says that "Now we have only asked for the data, the reasons for this will be later."
